PIONEER LAWYER DIES; WAS FIRST TO ENLIST IN '61

Madison.—Attorney Myron A. Baker, the pioneer Wisconsin lawyer, who died on Monday at the home of his son, Norman L. Baker, and whose body has been sent to Kenosha for funeral services there on Thursday, was the first man in Wisconsin to volunteer for service in the union army, after Fort Sumter was fired on by the southern troops.

He had a defective eye, but obtained an artificial eye and passed the examination.

Mr. Baker was one of the pioneer lawyers of Kenosha, county serving 12 years as district attorney. He was for many years a leader of the republican party there.

QUEST TEACHER FOR SECRET MARRIAGE

Madison.—Mrs. Elsie Dickerson, Thompson, a teacher for the last seven years in the Milwaukee public schools, who was secretly married last March, was ousted from her position on the local force Tuesday night by the superintendent. It was declared she failed to inform the board of her marriage, and had continued to take her pay under her maiden name, a violation of the local rules. The mere fact of marriage was held to be no bar to her retaining her position.

GAZETTE TRAVEL BUREAU

New railway folders on Rocky Mountain National Park, Outings in Utah and Idaho, and the Pacific Northwest and Alaska have been received by the Gazette Travel Bureau and may be seen at the Gazette Office and at the following addresses:

ROCK COUNTY FAIR BIGGER THAN EVER

are animals that hold blue ribbons won in the competition at the state fair. The best of the county, particularly from the northern section, noted for its pure bred stock, is on display.

Decide Corn Contest

The Rock county boys' and girls' corn club contest, an acre of corn, will be decided at Evansville. This contest was conducted under the supervision of J. K. Arnot, of the county Y. M. C. A.

Among the exhibitors who had stock in the pens on Tuesday were: Holsteins—Orrie Steel, Theodore Wolf, John and Paul Elmer, Frank Erdman, Arthur Cassmussen, Roul and Porter, Dean Spencer and Milbrand brothers; the baby beef contest, with calves from five to seven months old, all members of the calf club; Fred, Clarence, Elmer, Paul Ames, Wayne Ellis, Frank and De Rita De Remier, Joseph Thompson, and Lucio Staley, Phillip De Remier and Tugge Nelson.

Many Stock Exhibits

James Caldwell, Janesville, and J. C. Robinson, Evansville, have herds of 100 and 150 head of Red Polks; Marion Patterson, Guernsey, Robinson, exhibitor of Shorthorns, won many prizes on his herd at the state fair.

Many of the exhibits were not available on Tuesday or Wednesday morning due to the lateness in having animals placed in the pens.

Sheep are being shown by Seth Crall, William G. Miller and M. E. Brown, the latter from Wauwauke.

There will be keen competition in the swine department and the majority of the exhibits are of the Bureau-Jersey breed.

George Morrison, William Spanton, Clarence George, William Finerman and George Finn, Evansville, and Clarence Croft, Janesville, are showing the Durocs. L. H. Johnson, Evansville, has Hampshire; A. C. Fursch, Evansville, Fred Peterson, P. Reese, Brooklyn and Wilbur Andrews, Magnolia, are showing Poland Chinas, with Butts and Bahcock and George Chase, Evansville, showing Chester Whites.

Additional exhibitors will be registered Wednesday, adding greatly to this list.

Visitors Are "Guests"

Poultry is being shown in two tents, with the horticulture and agriculture in neat displays in a huge tent. One feature exhibit shows corn three feet high which was produced from corn grown this year. Another shows three cuttings of alfalfa grown in the county, indicating that the irrigation farmer has no monopoly on the third cuttings. All the displays are neatly arranged to the best advantage for the fair visitor, or the "guest," as the Evansville association officers term it.

There is a bit of humor along Midway, for under a huge tent with a hardwood floor there is a jazz orchestra playing away fox-trot strains, while a few feet away the Methodist church women are conducting a spick and span eating tent. A rest tent and station is being operated by the W. C. T. U.

In the domestic buildings there are the counters packed with cakes and kitchen temptations. Miss Anna Lutschke, an interesting visiting nurse, has an interesting welfare exhibit, which bids fair to attract as much attention at Evansville as it did in Janesville.

The school display is neatly shown in a wing of the building, which also contains booths of the county merchants.

The Pioneer Drug store, Helgesen and Park, and the Bank of Evansville have displays, and others will be added.

Toward the entrance are the agriculture displays, tractors, plows, engines, and in one tent, the automobile show.

The majority of the Evansville merchants have cooperated to the limit to assure the success of the fair.

Officers of Fair

The officers of the county agriculture association conducting the fair are: President, Walter Gollmar; vice president, Riley Searles; secretary, Dr. C. S. Ware; and treasurer, L. P. Eager; and directors: Z. W. Miller, Edward Hynes, Chauncey Miles, J. C. Robinson, D. F. Plannan, C. Jones, R. C. Searles, L. H. Campbell, Leonard Eager, Fred Brunzell, Dr.

BLEASDALE GIVEN MARINE CAPTAINCY

Janesville Man, 26, One of Youngest Marines in U. S. Marines.

Previous to leaving Janesville for Washington, D. C., Victor F. Bleasdale received information of his appointment, which was confirmed by Congress, as a captain in the United States marine corps. He was ordered to report for duty at Quantico, Va., to assume command of the 7th company of the 5th regiment of marines, a machine gun unit, composed of veteran marines by Sept. 10.

Although only 26 years of age the rise of the Janesville youth to the rank of captain has been rapid and consistent with his service. On the day the Lusitania was sunk he enlisted as a private. For 11 months he was in the front line of the fighting in the Philippines. On being graduated he was promoted to sergeant when he served in France with the First Division marines unit, which later came a battalion of the Second and was commissioned during the battle of Chateau Thierry.

As a first lieutenant he was placed in command of the 15th company of machine gunners and returned to the United States with this rank. Although there was a reduction in the personnel of the marine force, Lieut. Bleasdale held his rank by virtue of a presidential order. On being graduated from the marine school he was named as a captain and company commander, one of the youngest in the service.

The marine company is stationed 10 miles from Washington, D. C. and is kept ready for foreign duty.

MAN IN COURT ON HEALTH COMPLAINT

Dr. L. J. Woodworth, sanitary inspector, started action, Wednesday, to eliminate outhouses with the result that W. J. Bull was arraigned in municipal court. The case was adjourned to Sept. 15.

Milton Dix pleaded guilty to a charge that he drove by a street car loaded with passengers and his hearing was set for Sept. 20.

A fine of $10 and costs was assessed against Jos. Gillespie for intoxication.

Cotton Crop But 47 Pct. Normal

The United States is faced with the shortest cotton crop in years declared Thomas O. Howe, secretary-treasurer of the Rock River Cotton company, in a brief talk before the Rotary club at the Grand hotel Wednesday. This same condition attains the world over, he stated. He estimated this year's harvest as 47 percent of normal. In comparing cotton prices he stated that there is now selling at 18 cents a pound while cost of production on the new crop was 20 cents a pound.

Recommendation that the playgrounds of Janesville be extended and that all playground directors be employed on full time was made by B. S. Lamoreaux, who directed the playgrounds this summer.

CHAPTER XVI.

"I—I want to tell you something," began, my voice faltering as I tried to bring out the words.

"What about?" he asked, his gray eyes shining as he looked down at me.

"Something about—about kisses," I stammered on. "I—I want to say it to you, you kiss me!" His face became serious at once. I went on. I've kissed lots of men—nice ones and bad ones—and clever ones and old ones—some of them I've even kissed, and some of them tried to kiss me."

"And you want to say not more did!" His face shone with relief.

"No! None of them. Not one—before—this."

I gave a sudden start, elated and startled, as he said again: "And still half frightened because—what I said, he kissed me for the first time."

And when it came, it was unexpected, just as his sudden "I'm in love with you" had been. He must be before "Sweetheart," he said gently, "give my soul to say the same."

I looked up at him, seeing him somehow in a new light after his kissing me as the man I was really in love with, the first one I had ever loved only one. But of course I did not analyze these sensations until later, much later when I looked back to those days with such an odd misty glow.

"But I haven't kissed many girls," he went on, "and those weren't serious kisses. I'll tell you all about them sometime. If it would not bother you to listen?"

"All right!" I laughed, and drew away again.

"Now come and sit down here," I gave him a little push toward an armchair, the one big upholstery chair in my dining room. "I'll say to you, I've kissed a lot of men, arm of the chair, and he pulled me arm around his neck as he leaned back and took my hand in his."

"Now then, what is it?" He smiled at me. "I've kissed a lot of men, as much like a small boy that I love him twice as much as before."

"I want to talk seriously."

"All right, fire ahead."

"All right, then, if you think we are—going to be married?"

He threw back his head to laugh. Then suddenly he pulled me down into his arms and kissed me again.

"Of course," I said, "I would say 'Yes'."

"What made you say that?"

"You haven't asked me," I murmured demurely. Then I looked up at him suddenly to laugh at him.

"Of course, I have. Didn't you say to marry me?" He asked with mock seriousness.

"Yes!" I cried, but slid out of his arms and away before he could kiss me again.

CHAPTER XVI.
THE ANSWER.

I hurried through my bath and dressing that afternoon, and hurried Parker through my early dinner. "Come on, dear," he asked, looking at my frock. "For I had put on the very prettiest dress I owned, a clinging silk that my aunt had bought me during my winter."

"What you like too many parties and back you go to the sanatorium!" Parker warned as she waited on me.

"Do I look like a sanatorium patient?" I asked, smiling up at her.

"Oh, no," he said, conceding. "You look like a little girl in her big sister's dress. Rummie your hair out—so."

I ran my fingers through my hair and tucked out all the curls. They stood away from my head that way and made me look less like a small boy and more like the grown woman I was trying to be.

This was a dress Winthrop liked better than the others. He always noticed the things I wore and expressed his approval or his dislike. This very sophisticated, yet smart little dress he liked best of all.

I went to the living room door to greet him when he came, soon after dinner. Suddenly I did not want to say anything. I simply stood there and waited.

"Do I win?" he asked, coming over and taking both my hands. "I do, Connie dear! Don't! You do love me, don't you?"

"Flour my you know it!" I teased, pulling my hands gently away.

"Because you put on the dress I like. You would not wear it before, except that one time when I first saw you. You are adorable in it. Come here."

I took my hand again and led me ever to the light. I stood there quietly looking at him, and thinking how much I loved him. I liked to feel small and helpless beside his tallness and his strength.

"You do love me," he repeated. "Say it, Connie dear. For you said I shouldn't kiss you until you were sure—and I want to so much—"

He pulled me into his arms before he had finished the sentence, and his face was bent down very close to mine, and he kissed me so tenderly and so sweetly.

My arms clung to him while I turned my face away. I could not understand the queer contradiction of emotions that I went through in that moment.

"Say it—please dear!" he begged, holding me closer.

And clinging to him like that, it seemed easy enough.

"Of course," I answered. But I hid my face against his coat so that he could not kiss me.

And in a moment I slid from his arms—only a little distance, for he still held my hand, and I could not walk away. I was startled.

"I—I want to tell you something," began, my voice faltering as I tried to bring out the words.

"What about?" he asked, his gray eyes shining as he looked down at me.

BY MAIL

Have you acquired the habit of watching other people in street cars or on the trains or while you are walking along the street? I find myself watching them most critically, but that, of course, is because I am trying to correct small personal flaws in my business. And one thing that I have noticed frequently lately is the extraordinary number of split ends of hair on the heads of the girls. I think this may be because we are nearing the end of a hot summer when the hair has been sunburned and allowed to go wild. Summer is a healthy time for the hair, but somehow we all neglect ourselves a little bit during the hot weather.

If the ends of the hair are split or cracked they should be either singed or clipped about once every six weeks. There is an old superstition that this should be done at the new moon, or the full moon. I have forgotten which.

But this superstition probably only means that the hair should be singed with a certain amount of regularity.

If you are going to do it yourself, clip the ends of the hair with a sharp pair of scissors. Braid the hair into a great many thin tight braids. Run your hands backward over these so as to bring out all the short ends. Then clip them off and clip a few inches from the bottom of the hair. It is much quicker and easier to singe these ends by running a match or a lighted taper along the hair, but this had better be done for you by someone else, otherwise you might set fire to the whole head.

If the hair has a tendency to split, massage the scalp frequently with oil.

but Peroxide alone will do it, taking more time.

BY ELIZABETH TROMPSON.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been living in ignorance about several things I would honestly like to know.

(1) Does a man think less of a girl who has been married and divorced than he does of one who has never been married?

(2) Will he love her any better if he treats him mean?

(3) What do you consider a respectable hour for a girl of about 20 to go out?

(4) How many nights a week can a nice girl go out and be considered to have just as nice a reputation as one who stay in all the time?

(5) Is it considered nice to have more than one male friend if you get to one at a time?

(6) If you go to a girl's party or a girl's house in the evening and on your way home you meet a friend who asks you to go with him, is it considered to be him the permission of escorting a home.

MRS. S.

(1) A man likes to see with a girl about having her feel that she ex-pects him to love her. Thompson says a girl never shows how much she loves unless the man declares his love for her.

(2) It is human nature to want to be loved and cared for. But it is human nature to respond to gentle-ness. Sometimes a girl can be very kind and for a while hold the love of a young man, because he wanted to be the first difficult to get. I would not think it is a very good or a very effective means of winning and keep- ing friends.

(3) The closing hour of the amuse-ment naturally determines the hour of the girl's departure and the more respectable amusements usually close earlier in the night.

(4) It isn't how many times a girl goes out in the evening that counts. It is how she conducts herself. If she is very nice and not afraid of the men whom she attends, a school or working girl I would say that three or four nights a week is all that she ought to entertain com-pany or go anywhere.

(5) It is all right to have several friends.

(6) It would be all right to let him escort you home.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 15 years old and am afflicted with a chemically red nose. Kindly tell me what I can do to get it better.

BLUSHING ROSE.

When redness has become chronic a strong lotion may be essential, and if so, apply one made from four grains each of precipitate of sulphur, pure glycerine and distilled water, to every lard water and rectified alcohol.

Indigestion, as a rule, is one of the causes of the trouble. In such a case, bicarbonate of soda taken after meals several times a day, the dose being half a teaspoonful to half a glass of water. This corrects acidity.

It ought to be taken internally should be prescribed by a physician.

In making any lotion, its action upon the skin must be carefully noted. Should it cause the slightest tendency to peeling, it may be necessary to wash it for a few days, but a slight application of cold cream, rubbing it gently at night if desired, will usually effect such an effect.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am bother- ed with blackheads around my nose. Will you please tell me how to get rid of them.

My finger nails are short and can't draw without help. What can I apply to strengthen their growth?

MRS. SEVENTEEN.

Blackheads, as well as pimples, may be the result of so many dif- ferent causes that I can't tell them for you, except that you must be sure for each one will be treated for a different reason. If faithful trials of external only a person who has lived in Washington during summer-camp know that food endures on a stove. It was not day in the national capital when Mrs. Finkelvitch, and her husband, neither of them—were loaded on an ash wagon with cans of litter from an apartment building.

One of the cans was so listlessly handled that from it spilled a cloth mantle that rolled toward a group of little children. A boy picked up the bundle, opened it, and found—a mass of nations trembled that instant!

The boy who picked up that catastrophe had the audacity to buckle another and jump into it. He found Mrs. Finkelvitch's necktie, and he took it and three other boys to cruise in with him. The ashman and several other janitors were tumbling in many sections in explosions of laughter.

"Mother!" "Mother!" roared a janitor. "Madame Finkelvitch done turn around. Golly, it'd go 'round a time."

"Oh, baby!" whooped another. "And did you think dat woman couldn't go slippy-like down the street? she done get such a load on her!"

This had an intoxicating effect on four boys inside the corset. They leaped up and down the sidewalk, imitating the walk of Mme. Finkelvitch, well known in the neighborhood. They had ampie room when they sauntered for individual evolutions of undulous scope.

They crossed the street to each side of shades where there are clusters of grinning, giggling, rosy women, and at a moment! "Goosh, goosh, goosh," roared Mme. Finkelvitch.

It was a cry as honest as honest between the familiarity of a light and the surprise of a light.

Mme. Finkelvitch is one of the best. She is the wife of poor Siberian envoy to Washington. If she weighed 130 pounds or more, that is her business. And when she looked, against one of her window and saw the beautiful of her intimate integrity, it was her business to have the outrage stopped.

With one frantic clutch she aroused Mr. Finkelvitch, who had been enjoying a nap under three electric fans. He was—and is—the fire eater of the old school. What he saw and heard out of his window raised his temperature a thousand degrees, making it eleven hundred and four in all.

He rushed downstairs and, with a diabolical twist, wrunched the corset over the boys' heads, sending them sprawling on the sidewalk. Then, with the whistles doubled up in his throat, they across the back of the first boy to get to his feet.

His last stage was a demand that the world cease the pink-rivets and their low auction from the globe. They had beamrained civilization.

He perfectly into the picture, but, without curiosity about the camera, he became a source of annoyance to the photographer. He started out, the old rustic would get his cup and graze. The climax came by himself into the camera and standing on the ground. The director, in a hurry, said, "The matter with you? Have you lost your head?" he said, "No," said the old man. "And added thoughtfully, 'But I don't know.'"

It does not benefit a physician to be consulted. The excellent treatment begins by washing the face with liquid green sand and a brush. Then, apply a poultice made from flowers of sulphur and sulphur spirits. This is smeared on the complexion and stays on all day, being washed off in the morning. The face is rubbed over with a cloth. The plaster may be omitted, but it is desirable. If the skin is sweet, oil on the forehead is better. At night, it will scintillate and they will probably grow

Chapman first appeared on the Ohio frontier in 1895. He came floating down the Ohio river in a canoe, towing a log raft, and with him were loaded with apple seeds from the cider mills of Pennsylvania. His purpose was to plant the seeds in the wilderness so that orchards would be started for the settlers when they arrived there to make their homes.

For the next 20 years he went everywhere up and down the Ohio country, planting seeds, going from one orchard to another, pruning and caring for the young trees. He was a welcome visitor in the log cabins of the settlers for he always carried a bible and some books from which he would read and preach to them. Before the big fires in the evening.

Johnny practiced his teachings of humility and kindness. He never killed anything for food. He carried a kit of cooking utensils, including a rush bag in which he sometimes wore as a hat. Under his coat he carried a bag of black hick, but a coffee sack with arm holes cut in it was his only coat.

White men called him "queer," for he often went barefoot in winter as well as in summer, but the Indians called him "Gah-wah," touching the "Great Spirit." He went everywhere among them unharmed, for the fact that Johnny never carried a gun convinced them that he was under the special protection of the Manito.

During the fall of 1816, when the British were overrunning the Ohio country, Johnny Applesced performed his greatest service for his people. In his wanderings among the tribes he had gathered up a number of British captives on the settlements. Where no other white man could have gone, Johnny passed in safety and more than once he carried warnings to the frontier, thus saving the country from a defense before the red men were swept down upon them.

At this time Johnny Applesced was carrying at his cherished dream of a journey to the Great Spirit Cult trees and many of the finest of the west. That state today owes their beginnings to this strange man. In his later years Johnny left the country which he had loved so dearly, and went to live with a relative in Fort Wayne, Ind. He died in 1847.

—In Probate.

Notice is hereby given that, at the Regular term of the County Court, to be held in and for said County, at the Court House, in the City of Janesville, Wisconsin, on the 12th day of October, 1923, at 10 o'clock a. m., the following matter will be heard and determined:

The application of Amelia Mary Warden to admit to Probate the Last Will and Testament of Samuel R. Warden.

Cream Cherry Pie—Pastry: One and one-half cups flour, one-half cup lard, one-half cup ice water, two teaspoons salt.

Filling: One can sour cherries, one and one-half cups sugar, one-half cup then put half of cream over each pie and serve. This makes two large pies.

SUGGESTIONS

To Remove Grease From Stovepipes—Take pipe down wash inside and out

Stiff flour and salt together. Rub hard in with hands until well mixed, then add ice water to make a stiff dough (handle as little as possible - if ice water is in). Flour bread-board, take half of dough and roll out at one time. Place in pie dish, bake until brown.

Then take one-half can of drained cherries, place in each pie crust and sprinkle one-quarter cup of sugar over each. Put in oven about five minutes.

Whip cream and sweeten to suit taste; let chill until ready to serve.

With warm, soapy water, wash one half cup salsoda to each pair of water. A Green Jar—a large glass jar—make the kind with a brush in a well—jar's a handy container for the grease or oil used on baking tins, wire iron, etc.

Allen Wins "Y" Singles--"Y" Prelims End Wednesday

CAPTURES TITLE IN FAST SHOWING BUT WORKS HARD

Though pressed hard in the second set, Dossie Allen captured the singles tennis championship of the local Young Women's Christian association Tuesday by defeating Louise McNaught. The scores were 6-2 and 6-5.

The match was played on the Moody courts. It was exceptionally good and exciting. Miss McNaught failed to get into the first set and had to bow to much superior work on the part of Miss Allen. In the second set, she continued to get into her own mind and the winner a hot battle forcing it into extra games.

This was the first woman's net tournament to be held here. Its success will be fittingly celebrated in a banquet to be held in the "XW" rooms at 6 o'clock Wednesday night.

Council Sidelights

122 Plumbing Permits.
Plumbing Inspector George W. Slightman's report for August, submitted to the council Tuesday night, shows 122 permits, 119 inspections and $65.50 in fees. This is a big decrease from August, 1920, when 236 permits were recorded. New work the past month was as follows: Sewer connections, 57; water, 21; new plumbing, 15; sewer extension and alterations, 12; plumbing extension and alterations, 12; water extension and alterations, 12.

Seven Spots Filled.
Robert Kramer, janitor at the Jackson school, and L. J. Brown, janitor at the Douglas school, were deputized as special police without pay in order to deal with youths creating disturbances at the school buildings. Peter Gosselin, in charge of the fourth ward dump, was also given special police powers, together with P. D. Smith, Thomas J. Young, S. D. Gulliver and J. L. Rogers, all of the Samsen police force.

Two $50 Claims.
The claim of Hager & Mayford for $125 in payment of damages caused when a wheel broke off one of the tires responding to an alarm and crashed into a building at 306 West Milwaukee street, was ordered paid upon resolution of Ald. E. H. Rogers. The bill of Lewis Gower for $37.35 as damages to paint materials caused by the backing up of water was disallowed by the council and referred to the sewer contractor.

New Lunch Car.
Lee Sherwood was given a special permit to erect a frame lunch car, by 20 on the west side of North Adams street.

Two Petitions Filed.
Petitions for the re-opening of three streets in the Second ward on grounds the work was not done satisfactorily were laid on the table.

"These streets doubtless got just as much oil as others in the city, but they are clay streets and don't show the oil as much," said Ald. J. J. Dulin.

12-Offing Petitions were Received.
From property owners on Caroline street, Carroll avenue and Glen street, from Caroline to Hickory.

New Sidewalks Ordered.
Hager-Pountney city contractors were instructed to proceed at once to lay a sidewalk on the south side of North Franklin street, running from Mineral Point avenue, in the rear of the Tallman property.

This Sidewalk was Ordered in Two Months Ago and Should Have Been Done Before.
A 10-foot sidewalk was ordered laid in front of the Williams property on the east side of North Franklin street to connect with driveway. Orders for sidewalks on Lexington, Evans and Josephine street were laid over for investigation.

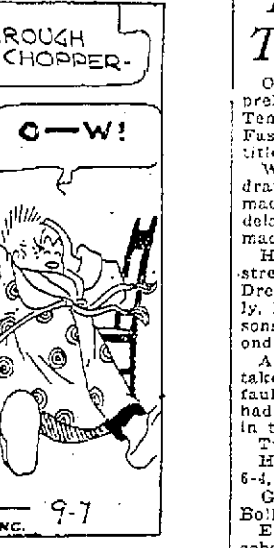

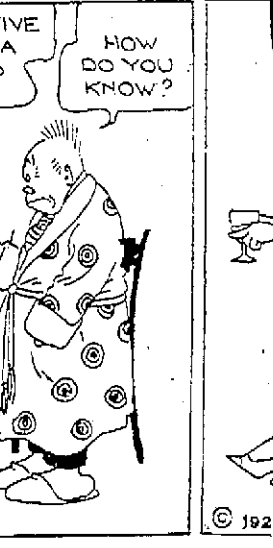

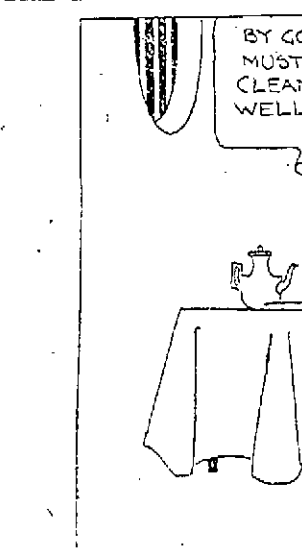

Police Ask Indemnities.
A request from Chief Charles Newman for indemnities for the loss of a dog was refused.

Would Vacate Alley.
A petition from Frank Mahery, 1014 Carriage street, asking the city to vacate a portion of an alley in Carrington's subdivision, lot 25 of Carrington's subdivision, Whitehead's addition, was ordered for public hearing before the council, October 3. The alley, which is not used by the public, is two wide and owners of all abutting property have agreed to the change, the petition brought out.

Three Hospital Cases.
Reports from Mercy hospital of three city patients there were accepted by the board of health. Monthly reports of the police department, board of education, city clerk, city treasurer, health officer, sanitary inspector, city sealer and municipal court were received.

Plans for Convention.
Announcement was made by Mayor T. E. Welch that invitations have been sent out to officials in 150 Wisconsin cities to attend the 1921 convention of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities here, October 12, 13 and 14. The program is now being arranged.

LORD LONDONDERRY'S POLEMARCH ANNEXES $36,000 ST. LEGER
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Doncaster, England.—Lord Londonderry's Polemarch won the St. Leger stakes of £5,000, sweeping the field in a final classic of the season, from a field of nine horses here Wednesday.

FORMER TRACTOR MEN HITTING PILL HARD
According to the done left here by "Hades" Perring on a visit to Janesville a couple of days ago, Broken-ridge and Holland of the former Janesville Tractors are hitting a blue streak.

Books is knocking the pill for 470 while Holland is hitting 480 and landing the tongue. Perring has hit seven out of eight times as a pinch hitter, the only time he goes into a game now.

The Sangamon Electric, of which Perring is manager, have won 20 out of 27 games since he took charge.

RUFF BUS LINE CHANGES SCHEDULE.

Tank Corps to Boost Athletics

Formation of an athletic club will be taken up at the first drill of the local tank corps since returning from Camp Douglas. This meeting will be held Friday night of the week. Officers will be elected at the same time.

The purpose of the athletic club will be to make the corps independent financially of outside help. Basketball will be the principle sport on the program this year. Efforts will be made to put the tanks in running for the state national guard basketball title.

Boxing Club Also.
Boxing may also be started. The tanks have the hall and some men at their own. All they need is a permit. They may get in touch with the Elks fight club to see what might be done through cooperation between them.

The athletic club would be a separate organization under the jurisdiction of the company commander. It would also plan the physical training for the guardsmen at each drill. The plan would be to redecorate the armory and rearrange the seating capacity.

In addition to the regular drill Friday, work will be done to prepare the tanks for their part in the big field day to be held here on Sunday, Sept. 18.

Enter Second Round of "Y" Tennis Thursday

Only four matches are left in the eliminations of the Janesville "Y" Tennis club's first annual tournament. Fast eliminations toward the singles title will commence Thursday.

While it had been hoped that drawings for the doubles would be made on Tuesday, there has been a delay that means they will not be made until Wednesday night.

H. E. Drew put H. H. Persons to a stretch to win on Tuesday. Although Drew has not been playing regularly, he made the first set 6-4. Persons' placements got him in the second set, which ended 6-1.

After he had turned the tables and taken the second set, Carl Yost defaulted to Eugene Rich. The latter had previously placed Robert Jacobs in the consolation.

Tuesday's scores:
H. H. Persons defeated H. E. Drew, 6-4, 6-1.
George Cassidy defeated Robert Boles, 6-0, 6-2.
Eugene Rich defeated Robert Jacobs, 6-1, 6-2.
Sam McKaig won from George Kallvelage by default.
Eugene Rich defeated Carl Yost, 6-1, 6-2, default.

You'll enjoy the sport of rolling 'em with P. A. Prince Albert is sold in tippy red bags, tidy red tins, handy some pens and ball point in handy and in the pound crystal glass humidor with sponge moistener top.

PRINCE ALBERT the national joy smoke. FIRST thing you do next F—go get some makin's papers and some Prince Albert tobacco and puff away on a home made cigarette that will hit on all your smoke cylinders! No use sitting-by and saying maybe you'll cash this hunch tomorrow. Do it while the going's good, for man-o-man, you can't figure out what you're passing by! Such flavor, such coolness, such more-ish-ness—well, the only way to get the words emphatic enough is to go to it and know yourself!

And, besides Prince Albert's delightful flavor, there's its freedom from bite and parch which is cut out by our exclusive patented process! Certainly—you smoke P. A. from sun up till you slip between the sheets without a comeback. Prince Albert is the tobacco that revolutionized pipe smoking. If you never could smoke a pipe—forget it! You can—AND YOU WILL—if you use Prince Albert for packing! It's a smoke revelation in a jimmy pipe or a cigarette!

The Spinograph Makes Spinal Analysis Complete. With the X-Ray Laboratory, the Chiropractor is enabled to take an actual photograph of the human spine which shows clearly any misaligned vertebrae and eliminates any guess-work in what actual Chiropractic treatment is necessary to relieve the abnormal spinal condition.

The Spinograph has been a further scientific aid to health science of Chiropractic which has, for the past 26 years, been relieving suffering humanity from its physical torture. Straws show which way the wind blows. The slightest pain or ache fortells the starting of some more serious trouble. Don't wait. Use the coupon below and get complete information. We want everyone to know what this wonderful science will do for diseased bodies, and have arranged to send a free booklet to anyone who sends in the coupon.
